BOMBS AWAY

A few months ago, I laid out my collecting goals for the year. One of them was to knock ten cards off my 1985 Garbage Pail Kids Series 1 want list. With several months to go, I can say goal achieved. And I'm having so much fun doing it I'm going to see how far ahead I can get. Not only did I reach my goal, but I was able to track down Mr. Adam Bomb. That was the one card that I thought would be the toughest. That card has almost taken on a sports feel given that it's one that commands a premium over others in the set. And a fairly significant one at that. It's kind of like a Rookie Card.

Tracking down these Garbage Pail Kids have been some of the most fun I've had collecting in recent months. There's the challenge of not only finding the right card, but in an acceptable condition and at a price that I'm willing to pay. I'm also discovering cards I'd only seen pictures of in the past. My local corner store didn't have Garbage Pail Kids until Series 6 or so. It's also been a reminder for me that while the new stuff can be lots of fun to chase, it doesn't always have to be.

Finally, there's the satisfaction of crossing a goal off my list. Not only that, but every additional card from the set I land between now and December 31st is almost like bonus territory when it comes to the ultimate goal of finishing the set entirely. It's never too late to set goals for your collection, so if you haven't already, I strongly suggest it.

This is another packed issue, filled with articles and information on both new and upcoming releases as well as looking back on a few classics. On the new side, Don Norton delves into the heavy-on-metal offering Game of Thrones: Valyrian Steel. This is the first spin-off release for the show from Rittenhouse that isn't based on a specific season.

Not only is Mystery Science Theater 3000 back with new episodes on Netflix, but, as hinted with the promo cards in both this issue of NSU (four different to collect!) and the Feb/Mar '17 issue, cards are on the way. Our fearless editor, Alan Biegel, shows what RRParks has in store for collectors.

You'll also learn about several other new products ranging from reptiles to Star Wars to Star Trek to the return of Marvel Premier.

As the kids start heading back to school, Rudy Panucci looks back on the greatest television show about high schoolers fighting vampires, Buffy the Vampire Slayer. It's hard to believe that the show debuted 20 years ago. But its impact on the modern hobby is undeniable. Whether it's the original Inkworks releases, the more recent mini sets from Rittenhouse or the handful of international issues, Buffy cards continue to have some of the most passionate fans out there.

Delving even further back in time, both in the age of the cards and its subject matter, Arnold Bailey takes a look at Look 'n See, which was released by Topps in 1952. Scott Thomas is back with another installment of Top of the Crop. This time he highlights some of the greatest war-themed trading cards ever produced.

One thing that you may have noticed last issue is that the price guide has been put back into the magazine itself rather than being a standalone piece. It has all the same content and nothing has been removed. By keeping things together the hope is it'll be easier for readers to keep things organized, together and a more complete read.

We do understand that the price guide as its own thing was convenient, especially if you were heading out to a show and wanted to slip it into your bag or binder. But we also understand that for some, slipping the price guide inside the main magazine made it easier for things to fall out and the two could become separated around the house.

As always, we welcome any and all feedback on this and everything else that we're doing. The NSU team is always focused on pushing the magazine forward while keeping the spirit that made it great. So please don't hesitate to let us know how we're doing. My email is always open at rcracknell@beckett.com. I can make sure that any comments get to the appropriate people.

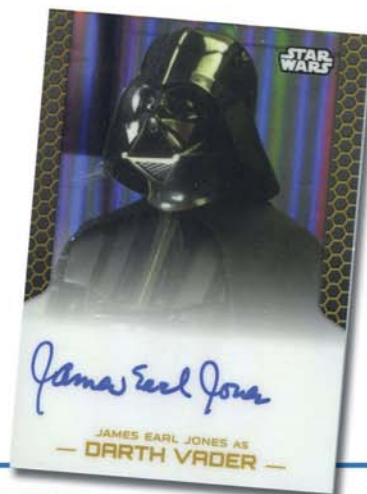

Thanks again for reading and your support of the magazine. We look forward to seeing you again in a couple of months.

DREAMING OF THE HOT 100

Over the last few issues I have addressed the Top 100 TV shows of all time as annotated by Rolling Stone magazine in 2016 as they relate to titles produced as trading cards. While many of the 100 have made the grade, most have never been committed to cardboard. Here's a challengeable list within the top 100 shows that would make great additions to the non-sport stable of fine card sets:

#83 HOUSE OF CARDS (2013-present) Even the name of the show calls for this political thriller to be developed as a trading card set. Considering all the continued twists and turns in today's real governmental landscape, the time is right for this fictional depiction to be developed as a non-sport product.

#82 THE JEFFERSONS (1975-85) Move on up with George and Weezy in this comedy spinoff of All in the Family. With 11 seasons to choose from (two more than AITF), there would be plenty of laugh-filled material from which to choose.

#63 THE WONDER YEARS (1988-93) It's a wonder this baby boomer tale of growing up in the late 1960s never made it to card size considering it has enough built in nostalgia to appeal to its target non-sport audience.

#57 FAWLTY TOWERS (1975&79) Only 12 episodes define this exercise in brilliant satirical art. Just as viewers never tire of watching John Cleese as bumbling hotel mismanager, Basil Fawlty, collectors would enjoy booking a set.

#51 FARGO (2014-Present) Based on the location and atmosphere of the equally quirky 1996 film, Fargo the series features a different cast every season, adding variety to any future card set that could develop. You betcha!

#49 TAXI (1978-83) The appearance of the severely overmedicated Reverend Jim alone is sufficient reason to demand a card set for this classic comedy on wheels.

#26 FRIENDS (1994-2004) These friends were there for you across 10 seasons and any card set featuring Ross, Rachel, Monica, Chandler, Phoebe, and Joey would sell, even today.

#20 CHEERS (1982-93) Everybody knows your name when you enter this Boston bar. Any potential trading cards could naturally lead to the show's even funnier sequel, Frasier.

#9 ALL IN THE FAMILY (1971-79) Centering around working class bigot, Archie Bunker, this norm-shattering sitcom set the standard for irreverent comedy.

#5 SEINFELD (1989-98) Eleven years of the best, most inventive comedy ever to air on television. Is it because the show was about nothing that there are no cards?

#4 MAD MEN (2007-15) Just like the advertising they created, this landmark dramatic series about the hard-drinking, alpha-male ad men of the 1960s calls out for its place in ephemera.

#2 THE WIRE (2002-08) Set in Baltimore, this contemporary crime drama has been hailed by critics as one of the greatest TV shows of all time. With storytelling over five seasons, the show offered sufficient plot diversity to make for an engaging trading card series.

That's a wrap for my look at Rolling Stones' top 100 TV shows, 35 that are available on cards and 12 more that probably should be. Tune in against next issue for our regularly scheduled editorial.

Buffy

Twenty Years Later, Buffy The Vampire Slayer Cards are as popular as ever

By Rudy Panucci

2017 marks twenty years since the debut of Buffy The Vampire Slayer, the show that went on to become a pop culture phenomenon. The series also propelled Inkworks into the upper echelon of non-sport trading card companies. Recently, Rittenhouse Archives has picked up the stake and started producing some stunning new card sets. In fact, over the past two decades there have been so many BTVS trading card sets that a new collector could understandably be more than a little intimidated. Here's a brief history to help sort things out.

20 YEARS OF BUFFY

Where It All Began

A year after the series premiered, Inkworks released a set based on the first season. Buffy The Vampire Slayer Season One offered up a 72-card base set that included several cards devoted to each episode, along with three subsets and a checklist. Chase cards included a nine-card set, The Chosen One, plus six Slayer Kit Cards that depicted the weapons used by Buffy. There was also an ultra-rare Coffin Card that described how to kill a vampire, inserted one per 108 packs.

Four autograph cards were included in this set, and they are among the most valuable cards in the BTVS trading card pantheon. Mark Metcalf (The Master), David Boreanaz (Angel), Alyson Hannigan (Willow) and the show's creator and producer, Joss Whedon, signed the inaugural autograph cards, and they remain highly sought-after by collectors.

Extras for Buffy The Vampire Slayer Season One included a box loader that previewed Season Two, an uncut sheet of The Chosen One chases, an illustrated binder, several promos, and a five-card set that was exclusive to Suncoast Video.

Needless to say, this set was a monster. BTVS was so much in demand that additional sets were inevitable. Over the next nine years Inkworks created more than a dozen sets devoted to Buffy.

Seasons two through seven each received a card set, released several months after the season ended, and they largely followed the format of the Season One set. The number of cards in the base jumped to 90, but there were usually two or more extra chase sets, one ultra rare insert card and autograph cards, which grew in number from five in season two to fourteen in the final seventh season.

More To The Story

Demand for BTVS cards was so high that Inkworks had to find a way to fill in the gaps between seasons. They produced a 54-card set of oversized (4" x 6") photo cards in 1999, and starting in 2000 they began producing themed sets that would plunder images from all available seasons just to keep Buffy's fans satisfied.

The growing number of autographs and the addition of Pieceworks cards to the later BVS sets mirror the changes that were taking place in the hobby at the time. The number of box loaders also increased to three and there were always a plethora of promo cards. Almost every gimmick and special insert was tried at one time or another. About the only thing Inkworks didn't give collectors were sketch cards.

Inkworks bowed out of the Buffy business in 2007 with their memorable Buffy TVS: 10th Anniversary set, having produced a total of sixteen full card sets based on the show, as well as dozens of promotional cards for companies as diverse as Johnny Lightning and Chupa Chups, as well as many conventions and magazines. In 2001 and 2003, Ikon Collectables produced two sets for the Australian market.

DID YOU KNOW?

Marking its 25th anniversary, a Buffy The Vampire Slayer movie was released pre-TV series in 1992. Events of the film, which starred Kristy Swanson as Buffy, are briefly mentioned in the TV show's 1st episode, providing Buffyverse continuity. Dark Horse produced a post-TV Seasons 8 through 11 canonical comic book series. No trading cards have been produced for any of these properties.

The Values

Having been such a popular subject for non-sport cards, Buffy The Vampire Slayer can be quite affordable to begin collecting, but collectors who get drawn in will find that being a complete is a completely different matter.

Aside from the Season One set, which will set you back fifteen to thirty dollars, BTVS base sets can be found for between four and fifteen dollars. Even the 2004 Inkworks Ultimate Buffy The Vampire Slayer Collection, which reprinted all seven season sets can be found by patient collectors for as little as one-third of its original $299 retail price.

The chase sets command considerably higher prices, and some of the Autograph and Pieceworks cards are among the most expensive single trading cards of the modern era. Several autograph cards, such as Charisma Carpenter, John Ritter, Alyson Hannigan, and David Boreanaz regularly sell for upwards of three hundred dollars. The Slayer's Essential Stake Pieceworks card from Inkworks' tenth anniversary set commands up to eight hundred dollars. Due to their limited nature, the recent and upcoming BTVS sets from Rittenhouse Archives are sure to be high dollar items, too.

The trading card legacy of Buffy The Vampire Slayer is fairly epic, with thousands of cards produced over the years and millions of loyal fans. It seems that Buffy may turn out to be as immortal as her undead foes. NSU

Reviving The Vampire Slayer

Rittenhouse Archives brought back Buffy The Vampire Slayer in trading card form in 2015. After an eight-year gap, Buffy fans were thrilled. Steve Charendoff, president of Rittenhouse Archives, explains the approach to revisiting one of the most popular card series of all time:

"Our focus with Buffy has always been to create cards that complement what had already been done in previous card sets. The obvious key was having Sarah Michelle Gellar sign cards, since she had never done that before for any other Buffy sets. Alyson Hannigan, although she had signed once before, has been hugely popular among the fans, and we felt there was room to offer more signed cards of her, including a dual autograph of her with her husband, Alexis Denisof, who had a small, but recurring role on the show, too. Lastly, Seth Green, who has also been a big fan favorite and who has gone onto much greater stardom, had never signed cards before, so getting him to sign Buffy cards was a key for us, too.

We have been asked by many dealers and collectors whether we would create a full series of cards — perhaps The Complete Buffy or something similar, but that would essentially force us to duplicate much of what had been done previously. Again, we focused on what hadn't already been done, including a metal card, sketch cards and other types of cards that collectors did not already have. Sketches certainly have been extremely popular and in high demand among the Buffy collectors, and all of the collectors' sets we've made and will make include sketch cards. We've had some of the very best sketch artists rally around these projects and produce outstanding work." Look for Rittenhouse's Ultimate Collector's Set 3 in November.

In 2004, following the conclusion of the television series, Inkworks released a limited edition package that presented the base sets for all seven seasons, reprinted in 20-point, foil-stamped card stock. This was sold as a factory set, including a collector album and special card coffin, numbered to 2,500 copies. This collection did not include any of the original chase sets, nor did it offer any autograph cards. It did include one exclusive bonus card for each season.

E-PACK EXPLAINED

We'd like to continue discussing extending your collecting online. Last issue we talked about Quidd. This time we'll discuss Upper Deck's e-Pack.

Simply put, e-Pack is an online trading card platform with a physical card aspect. It is a real boon to those who do not have a hobby shop nearby or perhaps have one that only carries a single non-sport card line or two. It also brings the notion of "trading" back to trading cards.

There's a number of facets to e-Pack, perhaps more than can be explained on a single page, but here are some basics. e-Pack has more traditional trading card aspects to it than some of the other online trading cards apps and destinations. The big one is e-Pack products are much more the digital equivalent of the card/pack/box/case scenario which collectors are used to. Other platforms are more akin to collecting images. In fact, Upper Deck says for every product it makes which has an e-Pack element, a certain portion of the production run is reserved for e-Pack digital cards.

Collectors can create an e-Pack account free at UpperDeckePack.com. You'll receive a free pack of digital cards every day when you log in. You can also purchase packs, boxes, and cases, most of which have physical card equivalents which can be shipped to your door. Your whole collection is viewable online and wherever you are via Upper Deck's website (which works great via mobile as well).

Sounds similar to traditional card collecting so far, right? Upper Deck extends the experience online by offering you the chance to trade and chat with others in the community and complete tasks to obtain exclusive achievements and achievement cards. Got too many of a certain card? You can combine duplicates for a rarer parallel version. This all happens in online time, right through Upper Deck's platform, so there's no waiting for the postman to ring. There's also the opportunity to have your collection transferred to Check Out My Cards (COMC.com).

Pricing for online packs vary quite a bit. Upper Deck has some high end offerings as well as more easily affordable series, just like they do with the various lines you'll find at your local retail or hobby shop. Prices per pack can range from $.99 to $249.99! The platform has been around over a year and has quite a lot to offer sports fans with subjects like hockey and USA Football while offering non-sport collectors products like Dinosaurs, Alien, and Marvel.

In non-sports, Marvel is Upper Deck's biggest offering. Joe Jusko's incredible Marvel Masterpieces was one of the very first non-sport e-Pack offerings. Subsequent Marvel series include Doctor Strange, Captain America 75th, 2016 Marvel Annual, and Guardians of the Galaxy Vol.

2. Later this year, Upper Deck will release Thor: Ragnarok but ahead of that is Spider-Man Homecoming.

Spider-Man Homecoming should be in stores as you read this. Homecoming's base card series will include 100 cards (90 base cards and 10 "Spider Friends.") Inserts cards focus on the following themes: Behind the Lens, Friend or Foe, Spider-Man Decathlon, Spider-Tech, and Spider-Men. Packs will also contain Memorabilia Cards (two per box); Parallel cards (one per pack) found in silver, red, blue, and black foil, and one autograph or sketch card per box. Autographs come in single actor and dual actor varieties while single piece, dual piece, triple piece, and quad piece memorabilia cards can be found. There will also be single memorabilia and autograph combo cards as well as dual piece memorabilia and autograph combo cards. Finally, there will be single and dual autograph booklets. There will be eight cards per pack and 10 packs per box.

e-Pack buyers who amass 10 copies of any non-foil parallel base card can combine those to receive a green foil parallel card. Combine 10 copies of any green foil parallel card to receive a gold foil parallel of that card. There will also be achievements for completing specific insert sets.

There's more to the e-Pack platform than we've discussed here and, as noted, it would be a bit beyond the scope to explain it all so you really ought to check things out at UpperDeckePack.com, even if it's just to receive your daily free pack. NSU

Mystery Solved

RRPARKS TURNS UNWATCHABLE MOVIES INTO ESSENTIAL TRADING CARDS

by Alan Blögel

Science will be a mystery no more when RRParks CARDS launches Mystery Science Theater 3000

Series One trading cards late this summer. Known for making unwatchable movies essential viewing, the MST3K TV show aired seasonally from 1988 to 1999. Now, thanks to a very successful Kickstarter campaign, the screwy sci-fi favorite is back for an unprecedented new season of 14 laugh-filled episodes on Netflix.

The show, which is as silly as its concept, tells the tale of janitor Joel Robinson (played by show creator Joel Hodgson), who is shot into space and forced by some evil nogoodniks to watch really bad movies. To preserve his sanity, Joel builds a number of lovable robots to help him wisecrack his way through the stinkiest film clunkers one could ever imagine. When Hodgson left the role in mid-season five, character Mike Nelson (not-so-coincidentally played by actor/writer Mike Nelson), took over the madcap team.

MYSTERY BASE & INSERT CARDS

Just like the show's main resident mad scientist, Dr. Clayton Deborah Susan Forrester, Richard Parks of RRParks CARDS is deep in perfecting his experiments. In Richard's case, that means concocting trading cards as cockamamy as the show. Currently in template/design phase, the main base set is dedicated to Experiment (a.k.a. episode) cards and feature scenes with Joel, robot friends Crow, Tom Servo and Gypsy, and the "MADS" (a.k.a. really mad scientists).

Collectors should seek out choice promo cards as well as special effect subsets, manufactured in foil and other eye popping printings. Supporting subsets are principally based on the "Invention Exchange" routines between Joel & the Bots and Dr. Forrester. Video stills from the first three seasons of the original MST3K TV show will be employed. Richard advised that since the majority of movies featured on MST3K are not in the public domain, he may include subsets providing riffs of some of the movies that are. The bulk of the base & insert series, however, will concentrate on the original host segments and actors.

SCIENTIFIC CHASE CARDS

As planning on this first-of-three series continues, Parks is growing ever more excited about the chase cards he is hoping to unleash on an unsuspecting public. “At this stage, because the cards are in the design and licensing approval process, specifics aren’t yet decided,” Parks remarked. I’ve also discussed with [licensor] Shout! Factory that keeping the MST3K trading cards flexible to incorporate fan input will make for a more dynamic, fan-friendly card series.”

Even though a big portion of the show’s cast are robots, Parks is looking to offer

SHOUT! IT OUT

There’s no doubt that the cult-favorite Mystery Science Theater 3000 is in a class by itself, but after so much time on the air it’s amazing the appeal remains so strong. Senior Manager, Publicity, at Shout! Factory, Sarah J. De Bruin, expressed her thoughts on this unique comedy phenomenon:

Mystery Science Theater 3000’s unique format and sensibility has influenced a generation, including new season cast members like Patton Oswalt, Jonah Ray, Hampton Yount, and Baron Vaughn. MST3K was a groundbreaking comedic concept when the show premiered in 1988. The show didn’t fit into established comedic molds — it wasn’t a sketch show, a stand-up special or a sitcom. Over the past nearly thirty years, MST3K has spawned an entire genre of movie-mocking media, from MST3K cast member projects like Rifftrax to podcasts like Doug Benson’s Doug Loves Movies.

Riffing on a cheesy movie a la MST3K is now part of the public consciousness, with projects like the Sharknado series being created for the sole purpose of being riffed on. MST3K is in the same vein as Doctor Who or James Bond — the concept remains the same, but new talent keep the show fresh and let it evolve, while maintaining the core ideals that appeal to fans across generations.

Fans of the show, known as MSTies, were one of the earliest fandoms to take advantage of the Internet. Transitioning from a post-al-based fan club, MSTies connected with other fans online and it allowed them to keep circulating the tapes. The community has been continuously active since the original run ended in 1999, and has helped to keep MST3K one of the most popular cult TV shows of all time.

Mystery Solved!

autographs as part of the collection. Sketch and art cards should be a sure thing as licensing has already approved their use in the series. This will be the first RRParks release to feature sketch cards. Die-cut genuine film-used costume prop cards are also in the works with original costumes IN HAND now. True fans will also enjoy special limited edition metal cards as an extra bonus. "Our plan," says Parks, "is to utilize the great folks at Faerie Metal for this. [They] have done special metal cards for Chronicles of the Three Stooges, the 1959 Three Stooges Reprint series, The Three Stooges Theater, Chronicles of The Grim Reaper, and Basil Wolverton II: Wolverton's Women)."

THEATRICAL PACKAGING

According to Parks, the project is being planned as a retail wax pack box release, similar to his Chronicles of The Three Stooges Series 1, 2 & 3 products. Each box should contain 36 10-card packs with random chase card insertions. "Steve at Nationwide Carton, the guy responsible for the wonderful boxes used for Chronicles of The Three Stooges Series 1, 2, and 3, has been tweaking a die-cut template for MST3K boxes," said an ebullient Parks.

An album will not be available per-se as the manufacturer has rather strong feelings in this area. "Personally, I am not a fan of expensive and dedicated binders/albums," Parks confirmed. "Instead, my plan to create 'binder insert' sets so that collectors can use their own binders and insert both an official cover and spine into binders of their choice. This keeps production costs lower, keeps the cost of the series to collectors lower so they can afford other card series, and provides collectors a flexibility with regards to what binders they use while at the same time having 'official album' parts in their collections."

With all the work and ideas Richard Parks is putting into this series, it's easy to see that for him, at least, there is no mystery to this science. NSU

NET FIX

Netflix has fixed the universe by bringing new episodes of Mystery Science Theater 3000 to hungry MSTies everywhere. According to Shout! Factory rep, Sarah J. De Bruin, series creator Joel Hodgson serves as a writer, director and executive producer on the new season. The show features a new host, new Mads, and, of course, new cheesy movies to riff. In the new season of MST3K, Kinga Forrester (Felicia Day) and her loyal henchman, Max (Patton Oswalt), have revived the infamous experiment started by Kinga's father twenty-nine years earlier: How many cheesy movies does it take to drive a person mad? In this latest reiteration of the show, her test subject is Jonah Heston (Jonah Ray), a space pilot for Gizmonic Institute who gets trapped responding to a distress call from the dark side of the moon. Confined aboard the Satellite of Love, Jonah lives with his robot friends, Gypsy (voiced by Rebecca Hanson), Tom Servo (voiced by Baron Vaughn), and Crow T. Robot (voiced by Hampton Yount). Returning cast members include Bill Corbett, who joins the new season as a guest writer and will have a guest appearance as his character, Brain Guy. Kevin Murphy makes a guest appearance in Season 11 as his character, Professor Bobo, and Mary Jo Pehl joins as a guest writer and for a guest appearance as her character, Pearl Forrester.

As far as including the rebooted show in their card sets, RRParks CARDS confirms that subset coverage of Netflix's Season 11 and beyond will begin in series two of Mystery Science Theater 3000 trading cards.

A SONG OF FIRE AND ICE ... AND STEEL

Since its April 2011 premiere, Game of Thrones has become HBO's most watched drama, garnering a record number of awards, including Outstanding Drama Series in 2015 and 2016. Season Seven is now underway. Throughout the books and television series, the name "Valyrian Steel" has appeared. It is the finest metal for swords, in an era when the sword is the weapon of choice. So when Rittenhouse Archives titled their newest set, Game of Thrones Valyrian Steel Special Edition Trading Cards, collectors can be sure to expect something unique.

EL

VALYRIAN STEEL IN THE WORLD OF FIRE AND ICE

- Valyrian steel is the finest material for swords in the world of Game of Thrones. Lighter, stronger and sharper than any other known metal, they were forged thousands of years ago by Valyrian swordsmiths in Essos. The blades are dark, with patterns resembling our modern Damascus steel.
- The secret of the steel was lost when Valyria was destroyed by a cataclysmic event, known as the Doom. Now, only a handful of blacksmiths from the city of Qohor can rework the metal, but still cannot recreate it.
- There are believed to be thousands of Valyrian weapons remaining in the world, but according to Archmaester Thurgood only 227 can be found in Westeros.
- The ancestral greatsword of House Stark was named Ice. It was used by Ned Stark in Episode One to behead the Night Watch deserter, Ilyn Payne. Ilyn Payne used Ice to behead Lord Stark. Later, Tywin Lannister had the large sword melted down and forged into two swords, Oathkeeper, given by Jaime Lannister to Brienne of Tarth, and Widows Wail, given to Jeffrey Baratheon as a wedding gift.
- Daggers exist made of Valyrian steel; one was used by the assassin who attempted to kill Bran Stark.
- Samwell Tarly discovered an old book claiming "Dragonsteel" could kill white walkers. This is believed to be another name for Valyrian steel. This theory is proven at the battle of Hardhome, when Jon Snow kills a white walker with his sword, Longclaw, which was given to him by Lord Mormont.
- The Tarly family sword is named Heartsbane. Samwell took the sword when he left his home with Gilly in Season Six.
- Masters will wear a link of Valyrian steel on their chains which signifies the study of "higher mysteries" — the occult.

Spy Hidden Pictures in Topps Classic Look 'n See

BY ARNOLD BAILEY

The Topps 1952 Look 'n See card set spans 2,117 years, forming a history of the world in miniature. The cards feature wonderful original portraits of 135 of the most prominent people within that timeframe. Today, the set is one of the most popular of all non-sport issues, and the majority of cards are still readily available. It's likely what made those cards so popular when they were released 65 years ago was their sense of mystery. As kids surveyed the display cases in their neighborhood candy stores they were attracted by the promise they could uncover secret information.

That attraction actually began with the packaging. The 1¢ & 5¢ packs and the display boxes drew kids with the message that "only you can spy on the hidden pictures." That pledge was accompanied by a series of spying eyes in the loops of the Look 'n See name on the packaging, plus enough question marks to attract even the most distracted of youngsters. In the 1950s it was kids who populated the target audience of candy and gum producers.

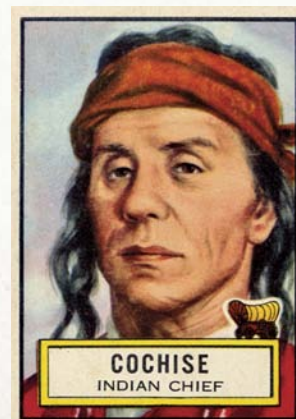

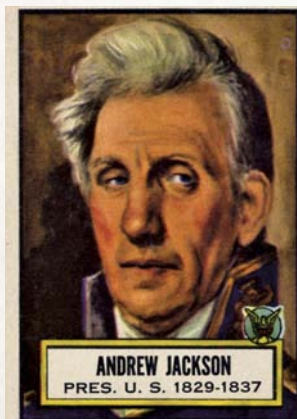

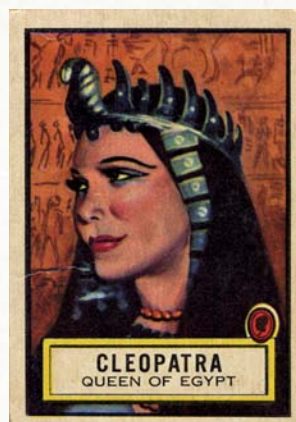

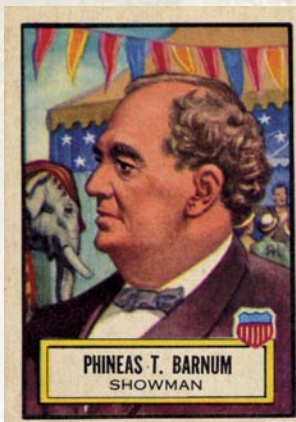

Even sports card collectors have been drawn to the set, attracted by card number 15, which pictures Babe Ruth. He may have been credited with saving baseball in the 1920s following the game's gambling scandal, but the great Yankees slugger didn't do non-sport card collectors any favors.

Ruth is the only baseball player in Look 'n See. In fact, he's the only athlete. But sports card collectors quickly found him among the great leaders, inventors and similar subjects. Prices for the Ruth card have been driven way beyond other cards in the set.

Look 'n See is a personality driven set, unlike most in the non-sport genre which are subject-oriented. The set provides a wide range of information beyond the 135 famous personalities depicted and details about the cards' design, production and idiosyncrasies. Here are some of the main topics:

LOOK 'N SEE LOOK 'A LIKES

Topps could have changed the name of its Look 'n See card set to Look 'a Likes. That's because several of the well-known people portrayed by Topps' artists resemble someone else, even though the artwork is detailed and has great eye appeal.

- Card #12 portrays composer Francis Scott Key, who's a dead ringer for Paul McCartney, especially in his early hairstyle. The Beatle was a composer, too, of course. So music-loving collectors are left to choose between one of his many hits like Penny Lane and Key's more traditional Star Spangled Banner.

- Aviatrix Amelia Earhart is pictured on card #45, but it looks as if comic character Annie, of "Little" fame, is staring back at you. Again, it's the hair.

- Scout Kit Carson, on card #53, surely looks a lot like actor Dale Robertson. It's the cowboy hat that turns a frontier scout into a cast member of the Wells Fargo TV show or several of Robertson's western movies.

- Card #63 portrays outlaw Billy the Kid, but it could be that Elvis is in the cards. This time, it's in the lips.

LOOK 'N DON'T SEE

The historic first powered airplane flight is the subject of card #13 in the Look 'n See set, a colorful portrait of Wilbur Wright. So, why just Wilbur and no Orville? History books tell tales about the Wright Brothers, a seemingly inseparable brother act until Topps produced a non-sport card that puts a slab of cardboard between two close kin. Topps does mention Orville on the card back, but that was it.

Brother Wilbur did get the first chance to fly, winning a coin toss from Orville. On December 14 at their Kitty Hawk test site, Wilbur gave it a go, but oversteered after leaving the launching rail. He crashed into the sand.

Three days later, it was Orville's turn. He was airborne, sort of, for 12 seconds covering 120 feet. After some repairs, Wilbur took another turn and was in the air for 59 seconds while traveling 852 feet.

So, Topps ignored Orville because he was short by 47 seconds and 732 feet.

But the gum company made up for it on card #33. It portrays Oliver Hazard Perry on the front, but the bio on the back is of Matthew C. Perry, Oliver's younger brother. Both were naval heroes and Topps unwittingly managed to get two brothers on one error card.

The other error card in the set is #70. It portrays Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegram and the related code that bears his name. Topps switched his middle initials to B.F. on the card front but had the correct sequence on the reverse.

HAVE A LOOK

THE GIMMICK

Early on, the backs of these cards were more important than the fronts. While the fronts feature great artwork and design, the backs are ugly. Orange is the color of choice with printing in white. Small shields enclose card numbers at the top left, followed by the name and a brief biography of the pictured person. At the bottom of each card back is a trivia question. Answers are revealed only by covering the card with a red cellophane strip included in every card pack.

THE FORMAT

Card fronts are almost identical to the 1952 Topps baseball set. Striking portraits are bordered in white with the subject's name below in a white rectangular box bordered in gold. Each name is accompanied by a small emblem that indicates the person's role in life. For example, Harry Truman's seal is a presidential eagle, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's is a cannon, and Cochise has a western wagon. Measuring 2 1/16"-by-2 15/16", the cards are smaller than their baseball counterparts (2 5/8"-by-3 1/4") and today's standard (2 1/2"-by-3 1/3").

THE PEOPLE

The 135 personalities portrayed run the gamut from "A" (explorer Roald Amundsen) to "Z" (writer Emile Zola) and their lives span more than two millennium (from Julius Caesar's birth in 100 B.C. to the reign of England's Queen Elizabeth II which continues to this day). It must be a strong assemblage when cards picturing Albert Einstein and Winston Churchill are classified as "commons."

SHORT PRINTS

The set was produced in two series (1-75 and 76-135) and several of the second group have been identified as short prints. The key was the surfacing of an uncut sheet of series two cards. The way the cards were laid out on the sheet, it appeared that the nine in the bottom row are short prints (cards #82, 84, 88, 98, 101, 112, 118, 130, 133). It has become generally accepted that card #82 of Dutch artist Rembrandt is the scarcest and prices attached to it have soared, sometimes passed "Ruthian" proportions.)

CURRENT PRICES

Professional grading is the tide that has raised a boatful of card values. PSA lists the value (pristine condition) of the #15 Ruth in the $1,500 range and the #82 Rembrandt card at $4,000. The winning bid at auction for a 1¢ wrapper and a 5¢ display box was $1,208 in 2004, one of the few exchanges of boxes. Ungraded cards are slotted much lower — $900 for a full set of 135, $200 for Babe Ruth, $15 for commons in the first series and $10 in the second. NSU

The Return of Marvel Premier

Designed for the deluxe, ultra-premium market, the 2017 Marvel Premier card set from Upper Deck returns — with a few new surprises. As with past configurations, each box comes with just five cards: two base cards or parallels, one single panel sketch, one oversize/multi-panel sketch, and one premium insert.

With a base set of 55 original artwork cards featuring Marvel's most vibrant characters, the numbering will be up to 125. There will also be three Base Set Foil Parallels, including Blue #d to 50; Gold #d to 10; Black #d to 5.

Premium insert cards (1 per box) include Die-cut Bronze Bust cards 1:2 and Die-cut Bronze Busts LTFX versions, #d to 15. New to the set are Hellfire Club Portrait Sketch cards featuring favorites from the Hellfire Club in framed portrait cards (#d to 30). Classic Art Shadowbox cards add a Marvel twist, using characters in a multi-layered, multidimensional looking card, Sketch cards, limited to one per box, include single, dual, triple, and quad panel cards, as well as oversized 5" x 7" cards. Artwork includes the work of artists such as Clint Langley, Ariel Olivetti and many others.

while posing characters in a familiar, yet non-comic setting. Shipping in July, this is the perfect set to collect for fans of the high-end market.

Welcome To The Amazing (Side)Show

This aptly named card set, first in a series, is Welcome To The Show, a 20-card set showcasing some of the greatest sideshow performers of our time. This card set is a fully independent release from the Mike James Gallery, with all art and design by Mike James. The set has a global feel to it, with performers from all over the world, including Canada, US, UK, Finland, and Australia. The set is filled with Guinness World Record Holders, and loaded with people who have made tons of television appearances on shows like America's Got Talent, Britain's Got Talent and Canada's Got Talent...not to mention numerous appearances in Ripley's: Believe it or Not.

Iron Dead Legends: The Lost Cards

Iron Dead Studios presents Iron Dead Legends: The Lost Cards. This set of 36 base cards follows up on the inaugural set from Iron Dead Studios, based on a variety of heroes, villains, and monsters not inserted, although each box will have at least one metal card. There will only be 25 of each metal card produced. In addition, there will be a five-card Legend Mystery Pack, composed covered in the Iron Dead Legends set. As before, this collection features the characters from the different Iron Dead illustrated novel projects, both past and soon to be published. Limited to 100 units, the cards also include a nine-card puzzle, mini-set and one unique artist sketch card per unit.

There will also be a three-card, metal chase set randomly of Legends Series One cards, that will serve as a second chance for folks who may be missing a foil chase card, metal chase card or variant chase card. Chase cards are randomly inserted.

The Lost Cards set will be available at the Iron Dead website in August (IronDeadStudios.com).

The Women of Star Trek: 50th Anniversary Trading Cards

You don't have to be a Star Trek fan to drool over this card set from Rittenhouse Archives: The Women of Star Trek: 50th Anniversary Trading Cards. Shipping late July, this set has more than 50 signers, including Vanessa Williams, Whoopi Goldberg, Marina Sirtis, Jeri Ryan, Yvonne Craig, Julie Warner, Kristanna Loken, Laura Banks, Fionnula Flanagan, Adrienne Barbeau, and more! There will be three autograph cards per box.

There will also be one Costume card and one Sketch per case. Costume cards will include materials from Guinan, Seven of Nine, T'Pol, B'Elanna Torres, Beverly Crusher, Jennifer Sisko, Keiko O'Brien, Vash, Anij, plus a BONUS costume card WCC17 of Yeoman Rand. Sketch cards include art by Dan Bergen, Chris Meeks, Kevin Graham, Mike James, Emily Tester, Warren Mar-tineck, Mick and Matt Glebe, Veronica O'Connell, Jim Faustino, Brad Utterstrom, Carlos Cabalerio, and others.

The set consists of a 100-card foil base set, plus a 100-card numbered metal base parallel set. Subsets include a nine-card Star Trek Women in Command Cards, 18-card Quotable Women of Star Trek set and an 18-card numbered Women of Star Trek GOLD Metal set. Case incentives include: six-case: A Legends of Star Trek Autograph Card signed by Nichelle Nichols; nine-case:

A Women of Star Trek Base Parallel Sketch Card drawn by Charles Hall; a first for Rittenhouse Archives — sketch cards drawn as parallels to a base set; 18-case: The Women of Star Trek 50th Anniversary Trading Cards Archive Box, including Exclusive Teri Garr (TOS) Autograph Card, Exclusive WCC24 costume card of Seven of Nine, plus an exclusive set of four color printing plates used to make the front of one base set card.

Star Wars Galaxy Just Got Bigger

Topps Star Wars Galactic Files will have a galaxy-spanning base set of 200 character cards to collect. Presented encyclopedia style, the product features characters from across the saga including the classic films, the prequels, the animated series, Star Wars: The Force Awakens, and the newest film, Rogue One: A Star Wars Story. There are a variety of parallels to chase including Orange, Blue, Green # to 199, Purple # to 99, Gold # to 10 and Red 1 of 1. There will also be five insert sets to chase — Vehicles, Weapons, Galactic Moments, Locations, and Famous Quotes, and each will have insert parallels in purple, gold and red.

Hits include autographs, dual autographs, triple autographs, an ultra-rare six-person auto, sketch cards, medallion cards, and printing plates. The Autograph cards will feature actors from across the saga, including class signers Harrison Ford, Mark Hamill, Carrie Fisher, Anthony Daniels, and Kenny Baker. Signers from Star Wars: The Force Awakens include Daisy Ridley, Adam Driver, John Boyega and Andy Serkis. Rogue One signers will include Felicity Jones, Forest Whitaker, Donnie Yen, and first-time signer, Alan Tudyk. This set includes nine dual autographs to chase with some pairings numbered to 50. There are eight triple autographs all numbered to three. An exciting addition is the six-person Autograph card that will feature the greatest villains from the Star Wars galaxy. Shipping in July, fans can find Topps Star Wars Galactic Files Reborn in hobby shops and Target stores.

Reptiles Rule!

Scheduled to slither into collectors' hands this September, Attic Cards presents Reptiles, an 18-card set featuring a range of reptiles, starting with the King Cobra #1 card. These cards are distinct from other mass-produced dinosaur sets by their low number of base cards and the concept behind the cards.

All of the cards, including base, color parallels and Pals cards are printed on canvas/linen stock. Jeremy Faulkenburg feels that since all the images are original art, they just look better on canvas/linen stock. "We feel every card we put out is worthy of being in someone's collection." In addition to the 18-base card set, there will be an 18-card set of 2.5" x 1.75" mini-cards called Attic Pals. These cards will be friendly, fun versions of the Reptiles base set — think Groot vs. Baby Groot to get the picture. There will be 36 base cards in the set.

In addition, a Kickstarter program scheduled for August will provide collectors with the opportunity to amass some additional chase cards. There will be a set of traditional, color-based, numbered parallels, plus exclusive Kickstarter parallel Full Metal card versions that will also be created as well as redemptions for original artwork. Base cards are unnumbered, but red parallels will be numbered to 10, and gold will be 1/1.

As we went to press, Attic Cards announced pricing for Reptiles. A base set of 18 cards will run $15 while a full set of 18 cards, 18 mini Pals and three base card parallels (one numbered) will be $25. Redemption certificates for the original art and for uncut sheets will be randomly placed in full set boxes.

This Means WAR!

BY SCOTT THOMAS

The year 2017 marks the 100th anniversary of America's entrance into the First World War. It seems appropriate, if borderline trivial, to consider how picture cards related, captured or exploited the nation's participation in international armed conflict.

HORRORS OF WAR (Gum Inc., 288-card set)

The most storied title of its era; Life Magazine's multi-page picture essay in the May 9, 1938 issue offered HofW invaluable publicity, a lesson absorbed by future card makers. Many war card collectibles, some by Gum Inc. or Goudey, others by unnamed publishers, subsequently followed. Horror of War, though, remains a hobby touchstone nearly 80 years after its debut.

WORLD WAR I SCENES (ACC designation:

T121, Sweet Caporal, 250 cards) World War I tested the nation's existence as a world power. Although British cigarette card manufacturers printed contemporary accounts of the European conflict, scant offerings from the U.S. firm American Tobacco Co. appeared. Sweet Caporal cigarettes, one of the ATC's brands that participated in the famed T206 Base Ball players 1909 issue, lent its name to this color-tinted photo issue. Published sometime in late 1914, card backs boast of "Up to the minute war pictures . . . (t)wo new subjects every day."

WAR GUM (Gum Inc., 132 cards) In the WAR GUM WRAPPER (GUM INC. 1941-42)

TOP OF THE CROP

pre-WWII years, aircraft, soldiers, propaganda, and more were deemed topical by both well-known and anonymous companies. Jacob Warren Bowman, the iconoclastic leader of Gum Inc. since 1935, brought Horrors of War to public scrutiny, and he spearheaded many other war-related titles before chicle and paper products became scarce civilian commodities. War Gum may have been Gum Inc.'s finest hour. Its artwork provides clear testimony of 1930s general illustration techniques, while subject and narrative content skews toward the heroic rather than the sensational.

FREEDOM'S WAR (Topps, 203 cards) By 1950, Topps had solidified their long-release marketing form vis-à-vis gum cards. Along with Hopalong Cassidy, the opportunistic Brooklyn firm embarked on what eventually became a 203-card collection titled Freedom's War depicting the Korean Conflict. The set fascinates (or frustrates) advanced collectors on many levels. Challenges lie in A) Back variations (tan v. gray); and B) The existence of singles, perforated panel singles and whole two-card panels. Even its scarcest subset, the seven-card Tanks, varies between die-cuts and non-die-cuts. In a sense, Freedom's takes a cue from Gum Inc.'s War News Pictures (1939) in terms of formatting and capturing instant history. For Topps Gum, however, their saga was just beginning.

WAR BULLETIN (Philadelphia Chewing Gum, 1965, 88-card set) Before the Vietnam War entered America's grim collective consciousness, news gathering operations of the mid-1960s reflected on World War II. Philly Gum added to the retrospectives with War Bulletin, which apparently borrowed its newspaper headline-based backs on Topps' Civil War News. Dissimilar to News is the employment of wire photos for the obverse illustrations. The next year, Philly touched upon the emerging heroes of Vietnam with The Green Berets.

BATTLE (Topps, 1965, 66 cards; 24 emblems) Meanwhile, Norman Saunders, who became the non-sport industry's most celebrated artist, was tapped to paint a World War II set. Woody Gelman hired Saunders to contribute art for Civil War News in 1961. Not surprisingly, Battle, illustrated exclusively by Saunders, carries the same pulp art cachet of News and Mars Attacks. Note that Topps' U.K. partner, A & BC, replaced card numbers 54 through 64 with more British-focused content. The substituting 11 are decidedly less violent than the Saunders-painted originals.

DESERT STORM (TOPPS, 1991)

VIETNAM FACT CARDS VOLUME 1 (Dart Flipcards, 1988, 66-cards) No American card publishing firm contemporaneously touched the subject of Vietnam. When Dino Frisella's Montreal-based group debuted in 1988, Vietnam scored a critical and educational success. As much as the previously discussed sets glorify and propagandize U.S. overseas military engagements, this set presents a balanced, non-partisan account with thoroughly less graphic imagery. No single historical work, let alone a card set, may adequately convey the issues, the politics or the emotional aspects of the Vietnam experience. For card collectors, Vietnam remains an important document of an era that nearly tore a nation apart. A Vietnam Volume 2 collection emerged in 1991.

DESERT STORM (Topps, 1991, three series of 88-card sets plus stickers) Prior to the 1991 Gulf War, trading cards had been chiefly equated with baseball. Topps' Desert Storm composed a new riff in picture cards, and its melody enticed the multitudes. The U.S. months-long buildup in the region allowed Topps ample preparatory time. When coalition forces invaded Kuwait in mid-January, Desert Storm was printed and shipped within a week. The cards gained springboard publicity through network news broadcasts. Card shows were invaded by Desert Storm-related sets and had remained visible throughout that summer. In retrospect, Topps' first Desert Storm product blazed the trail for the hobby's eventual Great Expansion that had been witnessed by the mid-1990s. NSU

UNITED THEY STAND

Students of non-sports are not the only ones who have something to gain by increasing their knowledge of how things do, or could, work in the hobby. Manufacturers thirst for a better understanding, too. Small card companies, in particular, are learning that by banding together they can find methods to harmonize their businesses in a way that can lead to new and innovative growth experiences.

One established strategy in advertising a new hobby product today is through use of promotional cards — those free cards given away at shows and hobby & comic shops, inserted in magazines (like NSU!), or offered directly through manufacturers' websites. Richard Parks, owner of the independently managed trading card company, RRParksCARDS, largely dispels the presumed success of only employing promos through those methods, "One of the challenges for new and small trading card companies is the cost of promotion, advertising, and building of a customer base. While promo cards are certainly one venue publishers use to promote their companies and their card series, they are generally one of the least effective." Along with Parks, some other manufacturers think promo cards could be put to a new, supplemental use.

According to Parks, four different publishers have teamed up to create what is possibly the first cross-branded, multi-publisher suite of promo cards. The publishers involved are Attic Cards, RetroDrive, Byron Winton, and RRParksCARDS. Together they are producing a series of eight promo cards. Each of the four publishers is designing two cards towards the eight card set. One of the two is a "meet the publisher" card and the other highlights some aspect of the specific trading card company. Each card's back has the name/logo and website information for all four publishers.

The plan is for the eight card promo series to have a production run of 500 total sets. Those sets will be divvied up to give each participating company 125 sets, which they will use to distribute to their best customers. The cards should be ready for distribution sometime within the June to August timeframe. "We are hoping this idea will introduce each of our customers to three other publishers," enthused Parks. "In other words, the 125 sets that are mine to distribute will introduce Attic Cards, RetroDrive and Byron Winton to customers who like what I've published and produced. Those receiving the eight-card promo sets will get the FULL set in a special wrapper. Because the four publishers involved have gotten to know each other, this promo set is our way of vouching for the integrity of our fellow publishers...and this idea puts our promo cards in the hands of collectors who actually support new and small publishers with a track record of buying our card series."

This musketeering approach to trading card marketing is a risk all are apparently willing to take. "This is very much an experiment but all four of us feel there should be no competition between publishers," Parks confirmed. "The more collectors we can introduce to new and small publishers the healthier the hobby will be. A publisher's biggest competition is NOT other publishers, because collectors will collect everything they want to collect regardless of who publishes it. Aspects outside the hobby that compete for a potential collector's time and resources, like handheld devices, digital collectibles, video games, and so on, [are the real competition]. This promo set is a way of demonstrating multi-publisher brotherhood and the bond to form between collectors and publishers, with a sense of 'We're all in this together.'"

If this test project proves successful, Parks is hoping other small manufacturers join in future company mash-ups. Said Parks, "Kurt [Kuersteiner] at Monsterwax really liked the idea and was going to be part of it but his travel and production schedules didn't allow for his contribution this time around. Hopefully next time. ANY other publisher who feels inter-company cooperation is valuable to the hobby, collectors and publishers is certainly welcome to contact either me or Jeremy Faulkenburg at Attic Cards. I would LOVE to have five, six or a dozen publishers all helping one another's promotions. The underlying concept here is to let the collector know there are small and/or new publishers producing some really neat card series. And this 'brotherhood' of publishers approach is just a simple and hopefully effective way of introducing collectors to the wide range of small/new publishers currently publishing cards." NSU

2017 Marvel Premier

NON-SPORT

UPDATE

WHAT'S LISTED

Products listed in the Price Guide typically:

- Are produced by licensed manufacturers
- Are widely available
- Have market activity on single items

HOW IT'S LISTED

The sort order of the checklists are somewhat unique. All sets are listed 1) alphabetically then 2) chronologically. However, some exceptions have been made to further accommodate the reader. For instance, when it comes to recurring series, television seasons or film franchises and their sequels, all checklists will be grouped together in the same block. For example, if a reader was looking for sets devoted to James Bond or Harry Potter, they would find all sets devoted to these franchises in the same block. They would be listed chronologically while still adhering to the alphabetization of the entire section.

WHAT THE COLUMNS MEAN

The LO and HI columns reflect current retail selling ranges. The HI column on the right generally represents the full retail selling price. The LO column on the left generally represents the lowest price one would expect to find with extensive shopping.

MULTIPLIERS

Parallel sets and lightly traded insert sets are listed with multipliers to provide values of unlisted cards. Multiplier ranges (i.e. 20X to 40X) apply only to the HI column. Example: If base card A lists for 20 to 50 cents, and the multiplier is "20X to 40X," then the parallel version of card A or the insert card in question is valued at $10 to $20.

PRICING PREMIUMS

Some cards can trade at premium price levels compared to values listed in this issue. Those include but are not limited to: cards that became hot since this issue went to press, fan favorites (such as Harrison Ford) who may be in high demand, and memorabilia cards with unusually dramatic swatches, props, or patches.

STATED ODDS AND PRINT RUNS

Odds of pulling inserts are listed as a ratio (1:12 = 1 in 12 packs). If the odds vary by pack type, they are listed separately. Stated odds are provided by the manufacturer based on the entire print run and should not be viewed as a guarantee by neither Beckett Media nor the manufacturer.

GRADING

All cards in the price guide are based on NrMint to Mint condition. Damaged cards are generally sold for 25 to 75 percent of Mint value.

CURRENCY

This price guide is intended to reflect the entire North American market. While not all of the cards are produced in the United States, they will reflect the market value in U.S. dollars.

ONLY A REFERENCE

The data and pricing information contained within this publication is intended for reference only and is not to be used as an endorsement of any specific product(s) or as a recommendation to buy or sell any product(s). Beckett's goal is to provide the most accurate and verifiable information in the industry. However, Beckett cannot guarantee the accuracy of all data published. Typographical errors occasionally occur and unverifiable information may reach print from time to time. Buyers and sellers of non-sports collectibles should be aware of this and handle their personal transactions at their own risk. If you discover an error, misprint, or have any suggestions for Non-Sport Update, please notify us via email at nonsports@beckett.com

NEW LISTINGS AND UPDATES

2016 Pop Century makes its debut in this edition of Non-Sport Update. Produced by Leaf, this product embodies everything that is pop culture. Movie stars, musicians, athletes and D-listers are all included for an eclectic variety of autographs and relic cards. Most notably, Daisy Ridley leads the way with several different autographs. Her base autograph is currently valued at $250-$400.

Barely missing the cut at press time was 2016 Star Wars The Force Awakens Chrome by Topps. This all-chromium set of Episode 7 in the Star Wars saga is a higher quality version of the initial Force Awakens product released in December 2015. However, the autograph checklist is much more extensive and also includes Daisy Ridley. Current sales of Ridley's Force Awakens Chrome autographs are reaching $2,000.

"My experiences with BBCE have been nothing short of terrific. Not only does (BBCE buyer) Reed bring a wealth of knowledge to each conversation, he is also reliable, fair, and honest. He is understanding about the process as a whole, and never puts any undue pressure on his clients. All exchanges have been positive and productive - he is a pleasure to work with!"
